French artist of advanced years and venerable aspect, who possessesif certain théories de acids de correct—one of the most interesting bits of canvas in the United States. It is c aimed that the picture was painted some 400 years ago, and hat it is a portrait nainted from life of Caristopher Columbus, the discoverer of America.

This supposititions portrait of the great discoverer pears a most packened and cilapicated appearance, Close 3xamination discloses that a strip has been torn away from one of the corners and that the canvas consists of two pieces very ceftly sewn together down the center. The portrait, which is worked off with the minutest attention to detail, is that of an elderly man, whose white hair crowns a wan, rather sallow looking face.
